A PRINCIPLE INVOLVED.

Choosing an obscure medium when he might have availed himself of the columns of The Evening Sun, President Joseph Potter, of the school board, has done The Sun the honor to reply to a criticism of his declared policy toward school contracts, and again has entirely missed the point we made. President Potter said the "Republican Sun" spoke unkindly about him, because, in protecting the funds of the city schools, he declined to pay Superintendent Lieb for the month of August. The Sun never uttered a harsh word against President Potter, and certainly not on account of his position regarding Superintendent Lieb's salary for the month of August; because The Sun's information is that President Potter voted with the others to grant Superintendent Lieb a vacation as soon as his reports were completed and to pay him up to September 1. It is true that President Potter at a more recent meeting declared against paying Superintendent Lieb this portion of his salary, but with that The Sun has nothing to do. Judging from the attitude of the parties that question will be threshed out in the courts, and then we shall be better able to estimate the quality of President Potter's economy. What The Sun did take exception to, was the ground on which President Potter declined to stand for this August salary—that contracts between the school boards and its employees are but formalities, which the school board is at liberty to ignore. The Sun recited the fact that the school board has entered into solemn contract with a new superintendent, principals and teachers, and this pronouncement discredits the good faith of these contracts. President Potter is right when he says the people of Paducah look to the school board to exercise economy in the administration of the schools' business affairs, but he should also bear in mind, that the people demand first of all that the school trustees have regard for their sacred obligations.

The city engineer has recommended to the general council that granite curbing be used instead of concrete, on account of its more lasting quality. There is an expert opinion, coming from one elected by the people of Paducah to observe such matters, and his word should be heeded.

Even running for office in a district so overwhelmingly adverse as to preclude all possibility of election, universally considered the ultimate sacrifice to party loyalty, has its compensations. The opposition press, instead of tearing one's reputation to shreds and tatters, can afford to say nice things about him. For instance, observe the following from the Benton Tribune-Democrat:

"T. B. McGregor will probably be the Republican nominee for representative from this district; at least that is the tip we get, from what we believe to be a reliable source. We also learn that a stiff fight is going to be made by the Republicans of the district. Mr. McGregor is an excellent young man, a lawyer of fine ability, who will poll the full strength of his party, but there are not enough Republicans in Lyon and Marshall to elect a Republican representative."

Editors and publishers of the First congressional district will meet at the Palmer House tomorrow to form a district association. This organization is to be purely for business purposes and will "fill a long felt want." There are many things benefiting the newspapers as business enterprises and the reading public and advertisers, that can be accomplished by the publishers of the district, acting as a unit, that could not be so perfectly accomplished by each acting independently according to his own lights and opportunities. Indications are that there will be a good representation of the First district press in attendance.

THE LUMBERMEN'S REFUND.

The lumbermen have won the long fight against the railroads in the yellow pine litigation. The controversy arose from an increase of 2 cents a hundred in the rate for hauling yellow pine, the excess charge making a difference of several dollars for each car brought from the south. There was prompt objection on the part of the lumber interests, but when this failed to secure a modification of the rate and friendly negotiations proved unavailing the matter was taken into the United States supreme court, which has just ratified the finding of the interstate commerce commission in favor of the lumbermen.

The amount of money involved in the controversy is several millions of dollars. This must be repaid by the offending railroads, among which is the Illinois Central. To refigure the charges on the yellow pine shipments during four years will require some time and there may be delay in settling accounts in accordance with the decision of the court. But as the east stands the lumbermen are pleased with the prospect of the return of perhaps $5,000,000.

An interesting ethical question has been raised in connection with the rebate. One of the lumbermen who is entitled to file his claim for a refund of excess charges says that he would not be justified in collecting for a loss which he really never sustained. When the railroads raised their rate on yellow pine the shippers immediately advanced the price of the lumber from 53 to 75 cents a thousand. The local dealers accepted the situation on the ground that the freight charges had been increased, and they, in turn, raised their price to the local customer. The man who paid for the 2 cents a hundred excess railroad rate was the lumber buyer in the city or town in the region affected by the increased rate. Instead of losing the shippers and lumber dealers really gained. Under such conditions one lumberman, at least, says that he cannot claim any refund.

It is no likely that the lumbermen in the joy of victory will overhaul their accounts during the last four or five years in order to ascertain how large a check to send to their local patrons, or that the latter, if they were to receive these unexpected gifts would look through their ledgers in order to figure out the redistribution among their friends and neighbors who have purchased yellow pine. If there are many lumbermen who hesitate to take a refund to which they may not be entitled as a matter of ethics, they may square things with their conscience by lowering for a time the rate on some of their sales to local dealers, and in the long run the real sufferer by the exactions of the railroads may be reimbursed.—Chicago Tribune.

RAILROADS MISTRUSTED. JUSTICE BREWER DECLARES

Milwaukee, Wis., July 19.—Justice Brewer of the United States supreme court tonight, in an address to the agents of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company, of which company he is one of the trustees, declared against the crusade against the railroads.

"There is much said about the railroads," said Justice Brewer. "It is a popular practice to say that they are wicked—for instance, like life insurance companies. There has been a great deal of wrong, such as granting of special favors, bad stock speculations, and the like, but I say to you that, taking the earnings and the money invested in railroads as a whole, there is not a fair return on the money invested.

"The attempt to squeeze those who built up the railroads and through them the country is not right. The men who invested their money are entitled to a reasonable rate of interest.

"My friend, Folk, of Missouri, has my admiration in many ways. But suppose through such laws as Missouri passed the railroads will actually lose money on carrying freight and passengers. Will the state make the loss good to them? I have been given to understand that Governor Folk has been denouncing the federal courts for issuing an injunction to the railroads in Missouri to protect them from the operation of the state statutes."

Justice Brewer held that the rights of the railroads should be protected until the law demonstrates that the roads can be made to net a reasonable return upon the money invested.

CAPT. MEAKER

HAS ASSUMED CHARGE OF LOCAL SALVATION ARMY CORPS.

Has Had Varied Experience as Newspaper Man and Soldier—Plan of Summer Campaign.

Captain Envoy Meaker has taken charge of the Salvation Army work in Paducah. The summer relief work will be particularly adapted to relieve poor mothers and children. There will be meetings in the open air on Broadway and in the slums.

The Salvation Army will evangelize the streets and take the gospel to those who will not enter a place of worship.

Any business men or other citizens who are in doubt as to any person seeking food or shelter, may send them to the Salvation Army. Captain and Mrs. Meaker will thoroughly investigate all cases and furnish relief in all needy cases.

"We find work for the unemployed and help people temporarily in a material way and permanently in a spiritual way," said the captain. "No one need go hungry or shelterless while God gives us the means to help them, and He never fails. Weakness on the inside, and misrepresentation on the outside, have hindered our work at times, but we intend to be worthy of the calling in Christ Jesus and live for God and Paducah. The devil never takes a vacation, and we will be busy all summer, too, in highways and byways, fighting the devil and rescuing the victims of sin and pride."

Captain Meaker was a newspaper reporter and illustrator, and has been in Paducah before, but this is his first time here since he accepted a commission under the "blood and fire" flag of the Salvation Army. Several of the members of "I" troop of the 12th U. S. cavalry, in which Captain Meaker served some years ago, also live in Paducah and gave him a hearty welcome.

The captain and his wife will be assisted by Myrtle Baker, formerly of the Cincinnati slum corps of the army, who will have charge of the slum rescue work in Paducah.

The army has rescue homes for girls who have gone astray and wish to reform, at Birmingham, Ala., and Cleveland, O., where rescue cases from this division can be sent.

Lost—$5 Reward.

One black pocketbook containing railroad passes and other papers. Finder will return to the undersigned and receive reward. W. A. Berry, 404 Fraternity.
